SAMPLE GUIDE FOR FILING ACCOUNTS

Within nine months of the date of appointment, an initial account must be filed.

The following is an example of a First and Final Account. It should be used as a guide and checklist only. All accounts must include the original signatures of all personal representatives and attorney for the estate, if applicable.

THIS SAMPLE GUIDE IS APPLICABLE FOR A DATE OF DEATH ON OR AFTER JULY 1, 2010
UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED

CONTACT THE REGISTER OF WILLS FOR GUIDANCE FOR A DATE OF DEATH
PRIOR TO JULY 1, 2010

Account Overview

The purpose of an account is to report all financial activity involving probate assets from the date of death of the decedent to the end of the current accounting period. The initial account is due nine months after the date of appointment of the personal representative.

There are two types of accounts, an interim account and a final account. With an interim account, not all estate assets are distributed. After filing an interim account, the estate will remain open and each subsequent account will be due six months from the approval of the prior account or nine months from the date the prior account was filed, whichever occurs first, until the estate is closed by Court approval of the final account. With a final account, all estate assets will be accounted for and upon the approval of the account, if no exceptions are timely filed, the estate will close. No additional documents will be required by this office after the order approving the final account becomes final.

You may prepay probate fees, and taxes due to this office; however, the probate fee will not be assessed until after the filing of the first account. The inheritance tax will be assessed when distribution is shown in an account. A bill will be sent to you from this office. This does not apply to non-probate inheritance tax which is billed separately by this office. (See page 16 for calculation of the probate fee.)

Account Checklist

Before submitting your account, make sure the following items are completed and included:

- Verification of the account signed by all personal representatives. (See page 13 and form on page 14.)

Note: If the personal representative is represented by an attorney, the attorney must sign the account pursuant to Md. Rule 6-134(a).

- Certificate of Service attesting to the fact that notice of the account has been sent to all interested persons. Certificate must be signed by personal representative or attorney, if applicable. (See page 13 and form on page 14.)
- Account includes Summary (page 1 of sample account) and Schedules 1 through 7 (pages 2 through 14 of sample account), and any supporting documentation.

Schedule 7 (page 12) is applicable only if the account is not a final account.

Note: The suggested format of the sample account is not required; however, your account must contain the applicable information and documentation as described in the sample account.

- The CLAIMS DOCKET at the Register of Wills Office has been reviewed prior to the estate closing to verify all claims against the estate have been paid in full, settled, or formally disallowed. (See page 15 for overview of claims.)
- Ensure that all figures balance. The sum of the beginning balance (Schedule 1); principal receipts (Schedule 2); change in assets (Schedule 3); and income (Schedule 4) should equal the sum of the disbursements (Schedule 5); distribution (Schedule 6) and, if applicable, balance retained for future accounting (Schedule 7).

The following pages are an example of a First and Final Account, with explanation.
You may choose to follow this layout when preparing your account.

NOTE: INHERITANCE TAX RATES ARE DETERMINED BY THE DATE OF DEATH OF THE DECEDENT AND THE RELATIONSHIP OF THE HEIR OR LEGATEE TO THE DECEDENT.

The Summary Page provides an overview of the entire account. A supporting schedule for each figure reported on the summary page is included.

¹ When filing the First and Final Account (or First Account if not a final), the accounting period begins as of the date of death.

² The deadline for filing the First Account is 9 months after date of appointment of the personal representative. In this example the personal representative was appointed February 15, 2015. The deadline for filing the account is November 15, 2015.

Schedule 1 of a First Account reflects the date of death value of the assets solely owned by the decedent, or held as a tenant in common, as reported on all Inventories filed with this office. If the first account is not also a final account, the subsequent account will reflect the balance of the assets retained from the previous account as itemized on Schedule 7 of the previous account.

1. If the receipt represents a refund, in whole or in part, of a payment that was made during the administration of the estate, include that information in the description of the receipt. See example below of the "partial refund of fiduciary income tax."
2. An adjustment for a payment made by the decedent or the estate in advance of a real estate sale, such as pre-paid county property taxes shown on the Closing Disclosure form, Line F.04, is reported on Schedule 2.

If the estate is subject to inheritance tax, also note the following:

1. The portion of the income receipt accruing, or earned, before the date on which a decedent dies is designated as principal. For example, regular quarterly dividends earned prior to death are considered principal, even if the payment of the dividends is not made until after the date of death. The principal portion is shown on Schedule 2. (A principal receipt reported on Schedule 2 is subject to inheritance tax if it passes to a person not exempt from tax according to Tax-General § 7-203.)
2. The dividends earned after death are considered income and reported on Schedule 4. (An income receipt reported on Schedule 4 is exempt from inheritance tax even if it passes to a person otherwise subject to inheritance tax.)

Schedule 3 is a summary of changes in assets including sales, redemptions, transfers, purchases, adjustments to inventory values, stock splits, changes of corporate names, etc.

Any gain or loss realized from a transaction is to be shown on this schedule. For example, when real property is sold, the gain or loss is calculated based on the difference in the inventory value and the contract sales price. (See example below.) Provide a copy of the Closing Disclosure form.

A gain or loss due to market fluctuation should not be included on this schedule unless it has been approved by the court pursuant to Estates and Trusts § 7-204.

Documentation of transactions such as the sale of tangible personal property or securities may be required. Examples of documentation include a bill of sale and broker's statement.

EFFECTIVE FOR DECEDENTS DYING ON OR AFTER JANUARY 1, 1998: The inheritance tax is not assessed on a gain realized on the sale of a probate asset. Additionally, the inheritance tax is not reduced by a loss realized on the sale of a probate asset. The inheritance tax is based on the value of the asset as reported in the Inventory. However, realized gains/losses are subject to accounting by a personal representative.

Schedule 5 includes all disbursements made by the personal representative during administration of the estate or during the accounting period if the account is not a First and Final Account.

Allowable expenses include payments of the following: reasonable funeral expenses (see page 15); family allowance (see page 15); debts due by the decedent which had not been paid as of date of death; unpaid expenses of last illness; bond premium; publication cost; bank service charges; federal estate taxes; Maryland estate taxes (see page 19); fiduciary income taxes (see page 19); expenses incurred from a sale, transfer or redemption of an asset; court costs and probate fee (see page 16); fees to the attorney for the estate and personal representative's commission (CAUTION - payment of fees or commissions may not be made until approved by court order or consents are filed. See pages 17 and 18.) See page 18 regarding the proposed payment to the personal representative or attorney of record for a claimed debt existing prior to the death of the decedent.

Maintenance expenses, including utilities, generated by non-income producing real property, are generally not allowed beyond the time for filing claims (6 months after date of death). When sale of the real property is directed by the Will or becomes essential in order to pay claims and expenses, necessary maintenance expenses may be considered. Mortgage payments will be allowed. Credit for any outstanding mortgage balance at the time of distribution will be allowed to offset inheritance tax. (If the property produces a reasonable amount of rental income, maintenance expenses may be allowed beyond the claims period of six months after the date of death.)

Closing Disclosure forms for real property sales must be submitted.

Vouchers (such as copies of cancelled checks, invoices, or bank statements) to support disbursements or other transactions may be requested by the auditor. Copies of the estate bank account statements may also be requested by the auditor.

Documentation evidencing payment in full of a claim filed against the estate may be required.

Note: When a provision in the Will directs the inheritance tax on non-probate property (reported on the Information Report) be paid out of the residuary (probate) estate, the tax on the non-probate property is calculated at the rate of 11.11111%. The inheritance tax is considered an expense of the estate and is reported as a expense on Schedule 5.

Schedule 6 includes all distributions to the beneficiaries of the estate, which were made during the accounting period. Also includes all proposed distributions (distributions that will be made within 30 days after the order approving the account becomes final). Itemize the assets distributed or proposed to be distributed pursuant to the terms of the Last Will and Testament or the laws of intestate succession.

If the decedent died without a Will, distribution must be in accordance with the laws of intestate succession established by the Estates and Trusts Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland, Title 3, Subtitle 1. See How Will My Estate Be Distributed If I Die Without A Will on page 20.

Authority for Maryland Inheritance Tax is established by Title 7 of the Tax-General Article, Annotated Code of Maryland

INHERITANCE TAX EXEMPTIONS (TAX-GENERAL § 7-203)
for Date of Death On or After JULY 1, 2010:

The inheritance tax does not apply to the receipt of property that passes from a decedent to or for the use of:

- (1) a grandparent of the decedent;
- (2) a parent of the decedent ("parent" includes a stepparent or former stepparent);
- (3) a surviving spouse of the decedent ("surviving spouse" means a surviving spouse who has not remarried);
- (4) a child of the decedent or a lineal descendant of a child of the decedent ("child" includes a stepchild or former stepchild);
- (5) a spouse of a child of the decedent or a spouse of a lineal descendant of a child of the decedent;
- (6) a surviving spouse of a deceased child of the decedent or of a deceased lineal descendant of a child of the decedent who was married to the child or lineal descendant of the child at the time of the child's or lineal descendant's death;
- (7) a brother or sister of the decedent; or
- (8) a corporation, partnership, or limited liability company if all of its stockholders, partners, or members consist of individuals specified in items 1 through 7 above.

Additionally, inheritance tax does not apply:

- (1) if a charitable organization is exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or on certain transfers which are deductible under § 2055 of the Internal Revenue Code;
- (2) to the receipt of the family allowance to the surviving spouse and minor child of a decedent under Estates and Trusts § 3-201;
- (3) to the receipt of property that passes from a decedent to any one (1) person if the total value of the property does not exceed $1,000.00;
- (4) For date of death after January 1, 1998, distribution of income, including gains and losses, accrued on probate assets after the decedent's date of death must be reported, but is not subject to inheritance tax. (See Schedules 3 and 4, and Example 3 on page 11)
- (5) Real property that is subject to a perpetual conservation easement for the use of farming purposes only and passes to a niece or nephew of the decedent.

NOTE: For a date of death occurring BEFORE JULY 1, 2010, contact the Register of Wills for applicable inheritance tax exemptions.

Pursuant to the Estates and Trusts §§ 7-101(b) and 9-104, assets shall be distributed in kind to the extent possible and within the time for filing the first account. See Schedule 7 if final distribution is not possible.

Calculation of inheritance tax on a specific bequest that passes to a person not exempt from tax:

- If the Will contains a sufficient tax clause¹, inheritance tax on a specific bequest is not subtracted from the bequest. The tax is calculated on the total amount of the bequest at the rate of 11.11111%. For example, if a legatee² receives a specific bequest of \$10,000, the legatee receives the full amount of the bequest (\$10,000) and an inheritance tax of \$1,111.11 ($10,000 \times 11.11111\%$) is paid by the personal representative out of the “rest and residue” or “residuary” of the estate. (The inheritance tax is considered an “expense” of the estate.)
- Absent a tax clause, the specific bequest must be reduced by the inheritance tax at the appropriate rate of 10%. (A specific bequest of $10,000 is reduced by an inheritance tax of $1,000 ($$10,000 \times 10\%$); thereby reducing the distribution to the legatee to $9,000.) The inheritance tax of $1,000 is paid by the personal representative to the register.

Note: When the Will directs that a legatee under the Will is to receive a bequest of a specific item of property, such as real property or a particular stock, the personal representative is to determine the amount of net principal receipts (portion subject to inheritance tax) and income receipts (portion exempt from inheritance tax) in connection with that specific bequest and is to distribute same to the legatee who is to receive the specific property. For example, if the Will directs that a specific stock be distributed to a particular person, the dividends earned on that stock after the date of death are included in the distribution to that person. Another example is real property. If a person is to receive a specific piece of real property, any rental income and any expenses incurred after the date of death in connection with that property is allocated or assigned to that legatee. See E&T § 15-503.

Calculation of inheritance tax on residuary estate that passes to person not exempt from tax:

- When a partial distribution of the residuary estate is reflected in an interim account and inheritance tax is not withheld from the partial distribution, the higher rate (11.11111%) is applied to the actual amount received by the beneficiary. (The tax is considered an expense of the estate. If the tax is not shown in the account when the distribution is reported, the tax may be shown in a subsequent account.)
- When a partial distribution of the residuary estate is reflected in an interim account and the inheritance tax is withheld from the partial distribution, the tax rate of 10% is applicable.
- The inheritance tax on the final distribution of the residuary estate is always calculated at the rate of 10%.

¹ A “tax clause” is a provision in a Will that directs the source for payment of the inheritance tax. Used here, a sufficient tax clause designates the “rest and residue” or “residuary” estate as the source for payment. (The “rest and residue” of the estate are the assets remaining after the payment of all debts, expenses and specific bequests.)

² A “legatee” is a person who would receive any property disposed of by a Will.

EXAMPLE 1

In the following, the distribution includes a specific bequest of $2,000 to the decedent's nephew, Bob Smith. As a nephew, he is subject to inheritance tax. The Will does not contain a tax clause directing the inheritance tax to be paid from the residuary estate. Therefore, the specific bequest to Bob Smith is reduced by the inheritance tax of $200 ($$2,000 \times 10\% = \200).

EXAMPLE 2

When the Will contains a tax clause directing the inheritance tax to be paid from the residuary estate, the distribution of the specific bequest of $2,000 to the decedent's nephew, Bob Smith, is shown as follows:

Bob Smith, Nephew – per Item V of Will	$ 2,000.00
Subject to Collateral Inheritance Tax at 11.11111%	222.22
Paid to Register of Wills		222.22
Paid to Bob Smith		2,000.00

Bob receives the total amount of the bequest ($2,000) and the inheritance tax ($222.22) is paid by the personal representative from the estate. It is "as if" Bob receives an additional bequest in the amount of $222.22, paid on his behalf by the estate. As a result, the value of the estate available for distribution to the residuary legatee is reduced by the payment of inheritance tax on the specific bequest.

EXAMPLE 3

Applicable for a date of death on or after January 1, 1998: The inheritance tax does not apply to the receipt of property that is income, including gains and losses, accrued on probate assets after the date of death of the decedent. Tax-General § 7-203(j)

Therefore, only the principal portion of the distribution to a collateral¹ heir or legatee is subject to inheritance tax. The Changes in Assets (Schedule 3) and Income (Schedule 4) are tax exempt.

An additional calculation is needed to determine the correct inheritance tax.

The example below illustrates the inheritance tax on the final distribution of the residuary estate to an heir or legatee subject to inheritance tax.

The decedent left a Will directing distribution of the total available balance for distribution (Schedule 6) to a legatee not exempt from inheritance tax OR the decedent did not leave a Will and the total balance is distributed to an heir not exempt from inheritance tax.

EXPLAIN WHY IT IS NECESSARY TO RETAIN ASSETS AND KEEP THE ESTATE OPEN.

NOTE: Estates and Trusts § 7-101 requires, in part, that a personal representative settle and distribute an estate as expeditiously and with as little sacrifice of value as is reasonable.

Unless good cause is shown, a personal representative is required to distribute all assets within the time for rendering the First Account (within 9 months from date of appointment as personal representative).

Upon the filing of multiple interim accounts, the Court may require that a Petition and Order for Authority to Retain Assets be submitted. If good cause for delayed closing of the estate is not shown, the Court may issue an order for the personal representative to appear before the Court to show cause why the final account should not be filed and the estate closed.

DATE OF DEATH January 1, 1998 through June 30, 1999

INHERITANCE TAX RATE Tax-General § 7-204

Direct inheritance tax - 1% applicable for distributions to:

- (1) a spouse (certain exemptions to spouse shown below)
- (2) a parent
- (3) a child or other lineal descendant of the decedent
- (4) a stepchild
- (5) a stepparent
- (6) a grandparent
- (7) a corporation if all its stockholders consist of the surviving spouse, parents, stepparents, stepchildren, lineal descendants of the decedent, and spouses of lineal descendants

Collateral Inheritance tax - 10% applicable for distributions to all others (see exemptions below)

If the Will contains a sufficient tax clause, inheritance tax on a specific bequest is not subtracted from the bequest and is computed at the higher rate as follows:

1.0%	Direct inheritance tax -	higher rate is	1.010101%
10.0%	Collateral inheritance tax -	higher rate is	11.111111%

Absent a tax clause, the bequest is reduced by the inheritance tax at the appropriate rate of 1% or 10%.

When a partial distribution of the residuary estate is reflected in an interim account and inheritance tax is not withheld from the partial distribution, the higher rate is applied to the actual amount received by the beneficiary. The tax is considered an expense of the estate.

EXEMPTIONS FROM INHERITANCE TAX Tax-General § 7-203

The inheritance does not apply:

- (1) to the receipt of all real property (including leasehold property) and the first $100,000.00 of personal property when passing to a spouse
- (2) if a charitable organization is exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or to which certain transfers are deductible under § 2055 of the Internal Revenue Code¹, and in accordance with Tax-General § 7-203(e)
- (3) to the receipt of the family allowance to the surviving spouse and minor child of a decedent under Estates and Trusts § 3-201
- (4) to the receipt of property that passes from a decedent to any one (1) person if the total value of the property does not exceed $1,000.00
- (5) to the receipt of property that is income, including gains and losses, accrued on probate assets after the date of death of the decedent.
